

Who knows what type of performance this will have.

Maybe there will be better performance with larger text sizes. But, one always wonders about uber-sensitivity around punctuation in reading text!

Kwisatz Haderach is a really obscure term from a movie called Dune. David Lynch made it but I hear Jodorowsky's version was going to be way better.

Here's an oddly placed block of text that maybe some kind of magazine would have in place. Who knows!

There may be some wild stuff going on here as this text is read
into the system.

Or wait! Maybe there is another one with some WILD Text
configurations that tesseract won't be able to read in so great.

Idk about you but I'm skeptiCAL.
